

Rapunzel Escapes

Rapunzel is a beautiful princess. She has long golden hair, her hair is so long and strong that she once threw her hair from the window of a tower so that a Prince can climb upon it.

But who climbed up in real? Her nasty step-mother who had locked her up in the tower had climbed up her hair into her room. "Oh God, How did you come here? Where's the Prince?" shouted Rapunzel. "Hahahaha", roared the step-mother, "I will not let anyone come here. I have placed special guards on duty around this tower so no one may be able to come and reach you". Rapunzel was sad and gloomy. After her step-mother had gone, she lay on the bed weeping and sobbing. "How will the Prince come here now?" she said.

Suddenly she heard a tap on the window. She looked up and was amazed to see it was the prince who had come to fetch her. He was on a Magic Flying Carpet and he moved forward his hand and Rapunzel quickly caught hold of it and jumped upon the carpet.

The guards saw them and shouted, they held their sticks to stop the carpet but the carpet was way toooo high. The Prince ordered the carpet to quickly take them to the castle. The carpet obeyed and they safely reached the castle where the King and Queen were waiting or their arrival.
