Little Red Hen

The little red hen was hungry. She collected wheat from the fields and bought it into her shed. Now she placed the wheat in a big bowl and crushed it with a stick to make it into flour.

"With this flour, I will make bread", she said. She asked the dog, the cat and the mouse to help her but they were all feeling too lazy. So she got to work herself.

She mixed water in the flour and prepared dough. Next she rolled out some bread and placed it in the oven. Soon, hot bread was ready and the shed was filled up with a pleasant aroma.

Then came the dog, the cat and the mouse. "We want to eat too, little red hen", said the three.

"No way", said the hen, "I made it myself, now I will eat it myself too!" She cut a big slice of fresh bread and sat on the table to eat it.
